

Rubric

Christabel Sarpomaa

Learning outcome: Learning outcome for the guest lecture is measurable and appropriate for the content and level of the class.

___7.5___/7.5

Content: Content is connected to learning outcome and is appropriate for the content and level of the class. Content is organized in a structured and logical manner.

___7.5___/7.5

Visual aid(s): At least one well-planned visual aid is used. Visual aid is appropriate for the content and level of the class and is connected to the learning outcome of the lecture.

___5___/5

Peer evaluation: Lecturer attends the micro-lectures of their peers and provides meaningful and fair feedback by completing the feedback form and submitting it to the instructor.

___5___/5

Total: ___25___ /25 points

Comments: Wonderful micro-lecture, Christabel! Your introduction of the topic through the example of unemployment in Ghana caught my attention and set you up well for explaining the sociological imagination and its application and importance. You did a really nice job explaining this! Your in-class activities were effective and interesting and will be even stronger in a class where you have additional time. Your slides are well done. They were effective as a visual aid and were not crowded. You have an engaging presence in the classroom that I think will help you build rapport with your students. To strengthen future lectures, you can work on slowing your pace a bit, which will increase your students' ability to follow along and take notes. Appropriate pacing is something that gets easier with practice and when you become more comfortable in the classroom. I think you'll do a great job in the classroom, Christabel, and our students would be lucky to learn from you! If you have any questions or want to chat about your micro-lecture, let me know. 😊*